

2013 International Summer Internship Program

The College of Engineering of National Tsing Hua University is pleased to announce that 2013 International Summer Internship Program is now open for students all over the world to apply for full-time summer internships within one of the college's 6 departments/institutes (CHE, PME, MSE, IEEM, NEMS, BME). The Internships are available for both undergraduate and graduate students, providing a good opportunity for international students to conduct research projects under supervision of Tsing Hua Professors as well as to experience Taiwan culture and to make friends with local students and other intern students from different corners of the globe. Every admitted student will be awarded the Global Engineer Leadership Scholarship, which includes a subsidized round-trip airline ticket (up to NT15,000) and free on-campus accommodation. Total of 30 scholarships are available for students with outstanding academic performance to conduct research internships in the following specified durations.
